MESSAGE

I am happy to know that The ARChive of Contemporary Music (ARC), in collaboration with Columbia University, is organizing India Music Week during 6th to 13th October, 2013.

In tune with our times, the India Music Week presents the diverse and vibrant music of India through its website, which aims to become one of the comprehensive resources for Indian music presenting videos, audio recordings of concerts, lectures, broadcast visuals, presenting sheet music, writings, photos and album covers.

I commend the organizers for this invaluable contribution in presenting and sharing substantial information on Indian music, which will provide more than a glimpse of the glory of this tradition but also its growth over the ages, and its enhanced relevance to our present and future.
